Home in a Hollow Tree.-About two HOME IN A HOLLOW TREE.—About two ALEXANDRIA, VA. and one half miles east of Healdsburg, is CORNER LEE AND PRINCE STREETS a large redwood tree, twenty-four feet in diameter, which is hollow, the inside havlag been burned out many years ago. The tree is in a lone place, and is seldom visited by any one save an occasional hunter who may stop there for shelter from the storm A few days ago a hunter was attracted to the spot by the sound of voices. What was his surprise to find soughy ensconced in this novel place a family, consisting of a man and his wife and three children. To close the opening in the tree a rude door had been constructed of deerskins. Inside the tree benches and tables had been constructed of redwood bark fastened together by wooden pins. The head of the family stated that he came from Oregon last fall, and, not being able to pay rent for a house, had moved his family into this living home. He had thus far made a living by odd jobs on farms near by, being careful to never state where his home was. One of his children, a lad of 15 years of age, stated that he had caught about seventy five coons and forty foxes in a steel trap, and had disposed of the skins a steel trap, and had disposed of the skinds for enough to clothe the family. The boy himself was dressed in a suits of coonskins. The mother bore the appearane of a once beautiful woman, and her speech showed she had been well culture. They were all yery reticent about their former life and how they had been reduced to such straits. They expect to spend the remainder of the winter in this sylvan home. - San Francisco
